Re: Guardian Staff Safety Systems and the National Probation Service

Dear John,

Guardian Staff Safety Systems currently have systems installed in excess of three hundred National Probation Service sites throughout the United Kingdom.

The Guardian system has become the preferred choice of Personal Alarm System for the Probation Service, and has been used to replace other manufacturers' existing PA Systems in many Probation sites. New systems are installed on a regular yearly basis as well as a continual roll-out programme into sites with existing PA Systems.

The Guardian System is chosen as the preferred system because it incorporates features that other manufacturers are incapable of supplying, primarily the provision of a "Double-Knock" feature to raise alarms as part of the ACPO Ten Point Plan, to reduce false alarms from personnel alarm systems.

The Guardian System is installed by a number of Probation Service approved major national and international security systems providers. Guardian works closely with these providers giving technical support, training and sales and marketing backing when required.

Regards,

Daniel Oliver
